

NEWS RELEASE

U.S. ARMY CORPS OF ENGINEERS

BUILDING STRONG.

For Immediate Release:
November 2, 2018

Contact:
Diane Stratton, 270-257-2061

Under new law landowners still required to follow process to resolve easement encroachments at Rough River Lake

ROUGH RIVER LAKE, KY — The America's Water Infrastructure Act of 2018 was signed into law on Oct. 23, 2018 which prohibits the government from collecting administrative fees for the processing of landowners flowage easement encroachment resolutions and allows for the return of any administrative fees already paid by landowners.

Even under this law, landowners will still be required to follow a process to obtain release of flowage easements over their property to resolve identified flowage easement encroachments. This process includes providing surveys, septic inspections, and copies of deeds. This law does not affect any fees that landowners may have to pay or have paid to other parties for these surveys, septic inspections or copies of deeds.

The Corps of Engineers will continue to work with landowners as we move through this process. If you have any questions, contact the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Rough River Lake Project Office at (270) 257-2061.